

Spring 2017 - Online Video course! JST 3149

- What was the relationship of the man named Jesus of Nazareth to his own religion?
- What do we know about the politics of the age, the anti-Roman agitation across the land of Israel, and the militant “Zealot” movement?
- How does the study of the historical Jesus impact interfaith relations today?

Get ready for a “snapshot” of the hopes and dreams, the pious faith, and the messianic impulses among the Jews of Israel during a seminal moment in human history! Taught entirely through weekly video episodes, created at UCF’s state-of-the-art television facility, in which your professor dramatizes a host of historical characters, this is one online course you don't want to miss!

Kenneth L. Hanson is an Associate professor in the University of Central Florida Judaic Studies Program. His multiple books and his appearances on syndicated radio and national television (The History Channel), have brought ancient insight into everyone's world.

